Introduction

The Church Family has been in the United States for over 200 years. They live every where from New Hampshire to Colorado and beyond. Other families have been included in this book. They are Johns, Parmer, Palmer, Meek and many too numerous to mention.

I have been researching the Church Family for the past 12 years. My search began when I married into the Church Family in 1977. I had a wonderful mother-in-law named Alice Church-Shaffer. She also was a very loving and caring grandmother to my children Tara and Matt.

When my husband Blain "Red" and I used to visit we would sit and talk about family. She had many interesting stories to tell about herself and her brothers and sisters but she always wanted to know more about her parents. Her father, William Church, never talked about his family or his life growing up in Virginia. I am sure it was a very hard life. Her mothers life was just as interesting but not much was known about the Parmer family either.

As you read this book you will see that many names have been used down through time such as George, Henry, William, Samuel, Sarah, Elizabeth, Hannah, Mary, and Margaret. Some names are very unique. Ingebo, Clarence, Arminta, Hepzibah, Jerush, Bashaba, and Montecue have not been used more than once.

I hope that this book will shed a little light on these families. I have tried to include as many people as possible. There are over 1000 people in this book. I apologize if I have forgotten anyone.

THE FAMILY

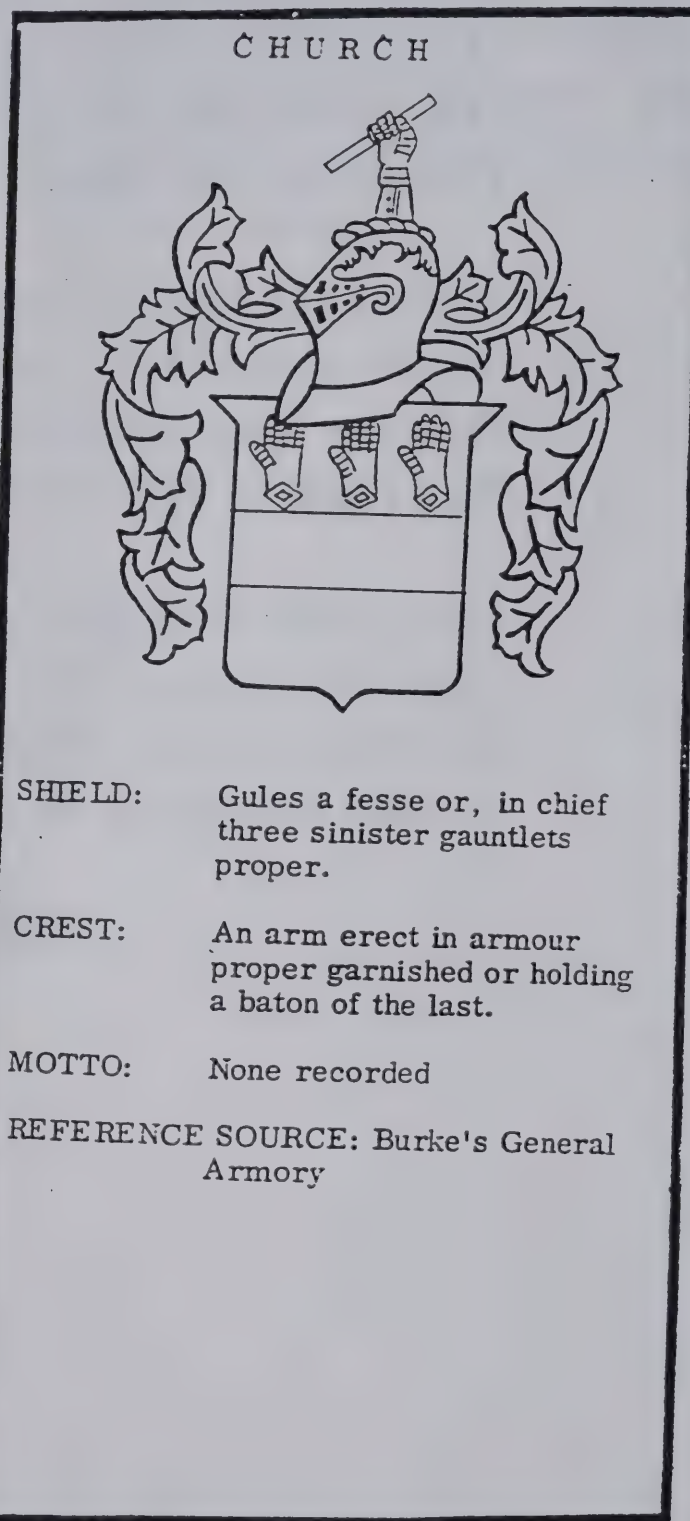

The family is like a book -
The children are the leaves,
The parents are the covers,
That protecting beauty gives.

At first the pages of the book
Are blank and purely fair,
But time soon writeth memories
And painteth pictures there.

Love is the little gold clamp
That bindeth up, the trust;
Oh, break it not, lest all the leaves
Should scatter and be lost.

Gules means Red in Heraldic language. It is a royal color and has long been used as an apparel of majesty. The color also signifies military strength, skill, and courage in battle, boldness, heroism, and nobility and it is the most noble of all colors. It is assimilated to the planet Mars, to the ruby, and to the rose.

The Fesse is a sash placed around the body in honor of some important achievement in arms.

The Gauntlets are hands of armor. They are facing left or sinister from the position of the bearer of the shield. The hands of armor implies the giving of a challenge to an enemy. It is also a symbol of personal strength.

The arm indicates personal strength and protection, and is symbolic of an industrious person. The arm is erect in armour which means there were notable acts of excellence performed at tournaments or in other military sports. The arm is holding a baton which is a mark of rank and it belonged to a leader.

The Crest is an emblem that distinguished one leader from another. It also served to gather his troops when both shield and banner were lost. The Crest is atop the helmet.

WEST VIRGINIA'S HERO
LEWIS WETZEL –
INDIAN FIGHTER

Often referred to as North-Western Virginia's "Daniel Boone", Lewis Wetzel has long been a subject of controversy. Was he a villain who had lost his sanity or was he a hero and protector of West Virginia's early settlers?

By most accounts, Lewis Wetzel was born in 1764, on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Virginia, the third son and fourth child of John Wetzel and Mary Bonnet. Shortly after his birth, a group of settlers, John Wetzel, Lewis Bonnett, Ebenezer Zane, Silas Zane, Jonathan Zane, Andrew Zane, and the Mercers, moved their families to Ohio County in West Virginia. John Wetzel staked his claim along the Big Wheeling Creek then returned to Rockingham County for his family; his wife Mary and their four children; Martin, Christina, George and Lewis.

This little family continued to grow with the addition of Jacob in 1765, Susanna in 1767, and John about 1770. Knowing the dangers of the area well, John taught his sons and daughters the frontier skills they would need to protect themselves. Lewis learned well and became an expert with a knife and tomahawk, but the skill he was best known for was his ability to load, prime and shoot his long rifle while running at full speed through the woods. This ability is the one that would help keep Lewis alive in his many engagements to come with the Indians.

In 1777, due to the danger of Indian attacks, many of the settlers were staying at nearby Fort Henry, waiting for the season's spate of raids to end. John and Martin, now a young man, had already been involved in the Battle of Point Pleasant and John knew well what could happen if his family stayed on their homestead. So, he had taken them to Fort Henry to join the other families.

John and three of his sons had left the fort and returned to work in their fields. It was about mid-morning when he realized they had forgotten to bring their guns. So, he sent Lewis and Jacob back to the cabin to check on some drying venison and to get his and George's guns. As Lewis opened the door of the cabin to return to the fields, the Indians attacked firing a volley of bullets at them. Lewis was struck in the chest and was in a lot of pain and losing blood when the Indians came in and captured the two boys. They took the guns and some pots and hurried off into the forest, dragging the two boys with them. When all of this was going on, John and George heard the shots and rushed back to the cabin, but they were too late. They knew they couldn't do anything without weapons so they ran to the fort to get more. By the time they returned the trail was cold and they had lost it. Lewis and Jacob were on their own.

The Indians had cared for Lewis' wound, packing it with herbs and leaves and covering it, but he was in considerable pain. He knew that he had to keep up with them or he would be dead so he put on a brave front and managed to keep up with them. By the third night, the Indians had started to trust the boys and the night watch fell asleep. This was the chance Lewis had been waiting for. He woke Jacob and they stole from camp. After going some distance, they realized they couldn't get far with nothing on their feet, so Lewis made Jacob wait quietly while he sneaked back into camp and found two pair of moccasins for their feet. After putting them on, Lewis decided that he had to go back again, so he told his brother to lay low and stay put and he returned to the camp once again and stole back his father's rifle and powder horn.

The Indians came after them, but they managed to elude them three times and finally crossed the Ohio River on a raft they made with logs and strips of bark. Some boys from the Wheeling settlement found the boys and helped them the rest of the way home. They were welcomed by their family and friends with exuberance as if they had returned from the dead. It was this experience that caused both Lewis and Jacob to make a vow to kill every Indian they encountered for the rest of their lives.

1777 was a bad year for the settlement. Martin Wetzel helped defend Fort Henry from attack that year. On September 25, twenty-two men were ambushed and slain while on a scouting expedition. Lewis was there with a group who had taken a different trail, so wasn't injured. Then Martin was assigned the task of helping to bury the dead, which they did by digging one large pit and burying them all in a common grave. When things quieted down, the bodies were eventually moved and given a more decent burial. Somewhere during this time period, three of the Bevans children were killed by Indians also.

The following year didn't prove much better. Lewis went with a friend to see his little farm, but when they arrived they found the cabin burned and his friend's wife missing. They followed the trail which took them across the Ohio River. They were still following them when darkness began to descend so they had decided to give up for the night and pick up the trail again in the morning. But then they smelled smoke and knew they were close by the Indians' camp.

They followed the smell of the smoke and soon found the camp of the Indians. Rose was alive and huddled against a tree, sobbing occasionally. While Lewis' friend, Frazier wanted to fire on them immediately, Lewis was able to convince him to wait until dawn.

They watched and waited all night and formulated a plan to free Rose. They were planning to shoot the first two to get on their feet, with Frazier taking the man on the left and Lewis taking the man on the right. When the first two rose to their feet, one of them being a white renegade, the boys fired their rifles taking both of their victims down. When Lewis and Frazier ran into the camp with their tomahawks raised and yelling loudly, the other two Indians ran, leaving their guns behind. They stopped a short distance away and looked as if they were ready to attack. Lewis then raised his gun and shot one down. The second one immediately charged knowing the gun would be empty, but Lewis had used his skills and while running, reloaded his gun. When the Indian was closing in on him, Lewis turned and fired killing the fourth Indian. Lewis took four scalps, all the weapons, and returned to the river where they used the Indian's raft to re-cross and return to safely.

The attacks continued to escalate and on September 11-13, 1782, Captain John Wetzel, Martin, and Lewis helped defend the second attack on Fort Henry by the British and the Indians. Martin and Lewis had also helped to defend Fort Beeler against the Mohawk and Shawnee Indians in 1782. It was this year also that Lewis' friend, Joseph Mills, was shot by Indians but was able to escape.

Three years later, in 1785, three of the Crow sisters were brutally murdered by Indians on Wheeling Creek. One sister, Lena, escaped, but Susan, Elizabeth, and Katie were bludgeoned to death with tomahawks. A while later, Jacob Crow was shot nine times by the Indians and killed. His two brothers, Martin and Frederick were wounded but managed to escape.

(Note: after peace was made with the Indians, these same Indians came begging at the Crow home. They were recognized by Lena, and her brothers went after the Indians and killed them.)

A real tragedy for the Wetzel family came on June 19, 1786 near Bakers Station. They had gone out on a hunting expedition and on their return were ambushed and confronted by Indians. They refused to surrender and paddled their canoes as fast as they could to get away. Captain John Wetzel was critically wounded, George was shot and killed, Martin was slightly wounded and Lewis was unhurt. As soon as they made it to the bank, John Wetzel died from his wounds. He and George are both buried there at Bakers Station.

It was following the deaths of his family members that Lewis really seemed to have lost some of his sanity. He never married, but spent much of his time out in the woods searching for Indians to kill. He roamed the forests across the Ohio country hunting Indians and carrying out one man raids. He would trail small bands of Indians and then would wait until they had made camp and were asleep when he would swoop down on them in the middle of the night with his knife and tomahawk and kill and scalp as many as he could before the others woke up.

He loved his friends, but hated their enemies. He was rude, blunt and a man of few words before company, but when with friends was a good companion. When asked, Lewis claimed he had collected 27 scalps between 1779 and 1788, but others say it was well over a hundred.

He was five feet ten inches tall and stood very erect, broad across the shoulders, had an expansive chest, his limbs denoted great strength. He had raven black hair which was usually kept braided in two braids, but when combed out reached well below his knees. His complexion was dark and pitted by smallpox, and he had eyes of the most intense blackness, wild, rolling, and "piercing as the dagger's point, emitting when excited such fierce and withering glances as to cause the stoutest adversary to quail beneath their power".

Lewis never owned any land or settled down or did any other sort of work. He was a good fiddle player who was always welcome at dances and in taverns. He got along well with dogs and children, but not very well with adults. He was not a good speaker and sometimes seemed strange and unstable. Some people thought he had lost his sanity. He would often appear at competitions of skills when there was one and he always won.

Lewis had been hired to travel with John Madison, brother of the future president James Madison, on a land surveying expedition. Unfortunately, John was killed by Indians on this trip.

Lewis was involved in more skirmishes with the Indians and each time he returned home with his scalps, he was proclaimed a hero. The settlers still felt that anyone who killed the Indians, a savage subhuman race, was doing them a valuable service.

Lewis was accused of murdering two Indians. The first one was a Delaware Chief who was acting as a peace emissary. He had been invited to come to the American's camp under safe conduct and had just gotten out of his canoe when Wetzel tomahawked him from behind. The Militiamen approved so much of his action that nothing was ever done to punish him.

The second Indian he murdered was Tegunteh, a key Seneca leader who had worked hard with Colonel Josiah Harmar to bring about peace between the Indians and the settlers. But Lewis didn't want peace to come because he wanted to kill all of the Indians, not make peace with them. One morning when Tegunteh left his camp alone to travel to the Fort, Wetzel stepped out in front of him and shot him, scalped him and left him for dead. Tegunteh died, but not before he gave a description of Lewis Wetzel.

Colonel Harmar posted Lewis as wanted for murder and he became a fugitive. He was captured and put in leg and hand irons and kept in jail where after three days, he could stand it no more. He called for Colonel Harmar and convinced him that he needed to be allowed to go outside for fresh air. So, he was taken outside. He managed to escape them and made it across the Ohio River where friends cut off his irons and gave him provisions and weapons. He was free for a while, but was then recaptured and taken to Fort Washington where he was locked up to await his trial. The settlers, 200 strong, gathered outside the fort. They demanded that Lewis be set free or they were going to rescue him by force. The Territorial judge John Symmes resolved the dilemma by freeing Wetzel on a Writ of Habeas Corpus. The judge then conveniently forgot to ever call him back for trial.

Peace finally came to Ohio County and with no Indians to kill. Lewis went west and south into Spanish territory. While there he spent several years in prison for being a part of a counterfeit ring. When he was released he returned to Ohio County.

In 1804, he was hired by Clark of the Lewis & Clark Expedition to accompany them as a scout. He went with them for three months, but then refused to go any further and returned home.

He then went to live with his cousin, Phillip Sikes (Sycks) in the vicinity of Natchez, Mississippi. In 1808 he fell ill, probably with yellow fever, and died. He was just forty five years old.

Some say he was nothing more than a psychotic serial killer who enjoyed killing. Others say he was a defender of the settlers and that he was a hero. Perhaps he was a "product of his times". He was a man who had been exposed to much violence at an early age plus the tragedy of the brutal deaths of so many who he loved that maybe it did affect his sanity. He had been able to defeat the Indians when others couldn't. And when he returned with the scalps of his victims, who the settlers believed were nothing more than savages, they treated him like a hero.

Lewis Wetzel had made a vow of vengeance against Indians. When he was successful in carrying out his vow and the settlers reacted the way they did, it may have only urged him on. With all of these things put together, it was almost like his life's path had been laid out before him and he had no choice but to follow that path.

Notes: Lewis was buried in the front yard of Sike's cabin. In 1942, Dr. Albert W. Bowser came down from Chicago and found his unmarked grave. He took the remains of Lewis back to Moundsville, West Virginia, where he rests beside his older brother, Martin, in the McCreary Cemetery, just two miles from the old Wetzel homestead.

Hannah Church was a Quaker. The Quaker religion also known as the Society of Friends originated in England in the 17th century. Quakers refused to worship in established churches, to take oaths, and to bear arms in war. They did not use official titles.

HUNDRED

The people of this little town in Wetzel County located on U.S. 250 in the West Virginia hills have the deepest respect for longevity. Our town was named after a couple of pioneer centenarians who settled here before 1800. Henry Church (known as "Old Hundred") was born in Suffolk England on November 30, 1750 and died September 14, 1860, being 109 Years 9 months and 14 days old at the time of his death. His wife, Hannah Keine, was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania in 1755 and died July 27, 1860 at the age of 106 years. They lived in blissful wedlock for 82 years.

Henry Church came to America as a soldier. After the Revolutionary War, he married a Quaker lady, Hannah Keine of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. To this union were born eight children. The family cleared the land and built a log cabin where the Bank of Hundred was built in 1906. This was the most prominent corner then and still is today.

Henry and his wife gave the plot of ground known as the Hundred Cemetery to the community as a gift so they would be buried there. It is located behind the Hundred United Methodist Church. A new marker for their graves was purchased by Norval Throckmorton and Dr. J. S. Church in 1972 to be a lasting tribute to Henry Church and his wife, Hannah.

Henry Church came into the spotlight when the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was completed in 1852. The railway station that at one time was a busy place, no longer stands. In 1858 the company officials sent an observation train over the railroad to Wheeling. They wanted to take Henry Church and his wife to Wheeling but he said "No, I never did make a show of myself and I never will". From then on, the train conductors would point out the couple sometimes sitting on their porch and other times working in the fields, calling attention to their being the oldest couple in the State. Cassie Church Hixenbaugh tells when her great grandfather, Henry Church, was 100 years old, he jumped over a rail fence four feet high.

The Hundred Post Office was established in 1886 in the Keller and Hamilton Store. At that time the word "Old" was dropped and the town was called Hundred. W. E. Hamilton was the first postmaster. We now have a new Post Office.

The first store was built in 1886 and owned by D. Franklin and Sons. T. Benson Hamilton built the first house about this time. The first gas well was drilled in 1886 and is still producing. Hundred has always been an oil and gas field. It was once the home of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Gas Station, Manufacturer's Light & Heat Company, Null & Morehead Gas Station, Round Bottom Gasoline Plant and Carnegie Gas Station. We now have Columbia Gas of WV and Carnegie Gas Station.

Hundred has a population of about 475. The town was incorporated in 1894. The first Mayor was A. F. Gilmore. The first Recorder was F. M. Keller. 1983 town officials are: Mayor, Francis Saterfield; Recorder, Judy McNeely; First Councilwoman, Ruth Hixenbaugh Jones; Doris Hostutler, Charles Phillips; James McGlumphy; and Sam Stewart; Chief of Police; Ralph Berry, Policeman, Richard Himelrick; and Water Supervisor Richard Snider.

The Bank of Hundred was established in 1903 in a rented room belonging to J. B. White. We now have a new bank on Wetzel Street. Hundred has a nice Community Park. We have an all day celebration every July 4th. We have one of the few covered bridges. It is 101 years old. Hundred has two churches, the Church of Christ and the United Methodist Church. We also have a new grade school, called Long Drain.

Also in Hundred are: Hunt Funeral Home, American Legion Earl Kiger Post No. 120, V.K. Market, Bell's Market, Home Hardware, B & B Hardware & Gun Shop, Hundred Insurance Office, Miss Blue Restaurant & Motel, Hundred Drug Store, John's Western Auto Store, S & S Coffee Shop, Handy Farm Supply, Hundred Laundry, Dairy Dream, Sue's Craft Shop, Old Commercial Hotel (the oldest one in town), Mountain State Telephone Company, City Hall, an Emergency Unit, a Volunteer Fire Department and McNeely's Machine Shop, plus four beauty shops, two barber shops and two service stations.

At this time the oldest living descendant of Henry Church is Lee Church, who is the great-great grandson of Henry Church. The farm he now lives on is part of the original Henry Church farm. Lee will be 95 years old on July 23, 1993.

Submitted by Ruth Hixenbaugh Jones, Great-great-great granddaughter of Henry and Hannah Church.

HISTORY OF THE SIEGE OF YORKTOWN

By the summer of 1781, the United States had been at war with England for over six years. The first shots had been fired in April 1775 on the village green in Lexington and at North Bridge in Concord, Massachusetts. Merely sustaining the army had been a major accomplishment for the Americans, who did not have much money, food or clothing. The winters of 1777-78 at Valley Forge and 1779-80 at Morristown were particularly devastating, with many soldiers freezing and starving to death, and some giving up and returning home. A deep belief in the cause and an enduring faith in their leader, George Washington, kept this army together.

In the summer of 1780, the Americans received a major boost to their cause when 5,500 French troops, commanded by Comte de Rochambeau, arrived at Newport, Rhode Island. France had been sending supplies to the United States all along, but after France and England declared war against each other in 1778, French King Louis XVI sent troops and naval assistance to the United States to engage the enemy.

When Rochambeau's forces arrived, the British were operating on two fronts. General Clinton, commander of British forces in North America, was occupying New York City after a largely unsuccessful attempt to control the northern and middle colonies. General Lord Cornwallis was leading through the southern colonies an army that had already captured Savannah and Charleston. The main American army under Washington was stationed along the Hudson River above New York City.

In the spring of 1781, Washington traveled to Rhode Island to meet with Comte de Rochambeau and plan an attack on Clinton. A French fleet was expected to arrive in New York later that summer, and Washington wanted to coordinate the attack with the fleet's arrival. As planned, Rochambeau's army marched in July and joined with Washington's troops outside New York City, only to learn that the French fleet was sailing to the lower Chesapeake Bay.

Washington changed his strategy to make Clinton think he was planning to attack him, while instead sneaking away to the south to trap Cornwallis. In order to fool Clinton, Washington had his men build big army camps and huge brick bread ovens visible from New York to give the appearance of preparations for a stay. Washington also prepared false papers under his signature discussing plans for an attack on Clinton, and let these papers fall into British hands. Leaving a small force behind, Washington and Rochambeau set out for Yorktown in mid-August. By early September they were parading before the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, and they arrived in Williamsburg, 13 miles west of Yorktown, in mid September.

Cornwallis was in Yorktown because he had been ordered by Clinton during the summer to provide a protected harbor for the British fleet in the lower Chesapeake Bay. Cornwallis chose Yorktown because of its deep-water harbor on the York River. His army spent the latter part of the summer fortifying Yorktown and Gloucester Point across the York River.

The French fleet, as part of the overall plan, entered the lower Chesapeake Bay in the end of August and disembarked 3,000 French troops to wait for Washington and Rochambeau in Williamsburg. On September 5, they encountered the British fleet in a naval engagement known as the Battle of the Capes. The British suffered damage to their ships and returned to New York, while the French, commanded by Admiral de Grasse, remained in the lower Chesapeake and established a blockade.

By the end of September, approximately 17,600 American and French soldiers were gathered in Williamsburg, while 8,300 British soldiers were occupying Yorktown.

The British forces included a small number of German auxiliary troops hired to help fight the war. Cornwallis recognized the odds were in the allies' favor, and he sent Clinton a note asking for help. Clinton responded that a British fleet with 5,000 men would sail for Yorktown from New York on October 5.

Cornwallis had his men construct a main line of defense around Yorktown that consisted of ten small enclosed forts (called redoubts), batteries with artillery and connecting trenches. The Americans and French marched from Williamsburg to Yorktown on September 28 and began digging a trench 800 yards from the British defense line to begin a siege. By October 9, the allies' trench was finished and their artillery had been moved up. Firing at the British continuously, they had virtually knocked the British guns out of action by October 11. Cornwallis had the additional misfortune to learn at that time that Clinton's departure from New York had been delayed.

During the night of October 11, the allies began a second trench 400 yards from the British. The next days were spent bringing up artillery and strengthening the new line. The new line could not be completed, however, without capturing British redoubts 9 and 10. On the night of October 14, 400 French stormed redoubt 9 and 400 Americans stormed redoubt 10, capturing them in less than 30 minutes. Nine Americans and 15 French died in this brief and heroic action.

On October 16, the British tried two desperation moves. Early that morning they attacked the allied center, attempted to silence a French Battery, but the French cannons were firing again in less than six hours. Late that night they tried to evacuate Yorktown by crossing the York River in small boats to Gloucester Point. A violent windstorm arose at midnight, however, scattering the boats and forcing an abandonment of the escape.

Realizing the situation was hopeless, Cornwallis sent forth a British drummer on October 17, followed by a British officer with a white flag and note indicating a request for a cease fire. A number of notes passed between Cornwallis and Washington that day as they set the framework for the surrender. The next day, October 18, four officers--one American, one French and two British--met at the Moore House, one mile outside Yorktown, to settle surrender terms.

On October 19, in a spectacle incredible to all who witnessed it, most of Cornwallis' army marched out of Yorktown between two lines of allied soldiers-- Americans on one side and French on the other--that stretched for more than one mile. The British marched to a field where they laid down their arms, and returned to Yorktown. They did not know that on that very day, Clinton sailed for Yorktown from New York with 5,000 of troops.

News of the British defeat at Yorktown spread quickly. Celebrations took place throughout the United States. London was shocked. The British prisoners were marched to prison camps in Winchester, Virginia and Frederick, Maryland. The American army returned to the Hudson River, while the French army remained in Yorktown and Williamsburg for the winter. Clinton and Cornwallis eventually returned to England where they engaged in a long and bitter public controversy over who was to blame for the British defeat at Yorktown.

Though the British still had 26,000 troops in North America after Yorktown, their resolve to win the war was nothing like it had been before Yorktown. The war had been lengthy and costly. Replacing Cornwallis' captured army was a questionable proposition, particularly because the British also were engaged in military struggles in India, Gibraltar, the West Indies and Ireland. Thus, the British Parliament in March 1782 passes a resolution saying the British should not continue the war against the United States. Later that year, commissioners of the United States and Great Britain signed provisional articles of peace. In September 1783, the final treaty was signed which ended the war and acknowledged American independence.

The following is an excerpt from a June 1859 article, Artists' Railroad Excursion, published in Harper's New Monthly Magazine.

A short distance beyond Burton the train was stopped to give the excursionists an opportunity of visiting a couple who, from their extreme old age, have considerable local notoriety. Their cottage stood immediately by the way-side; and the old folks, with several of the younger fry were at home, rather astonished, no doubt, at the number and character of their visitors.

Henry Church was born in Suffolk, England in the year of our Lord 1750, and is now a hundred and eight years old. He came to this country a British soldier, of the 63d Light Infantry, and served under Lord Cornwallis in the memorable campaign of 1781. But it was not his fortune to have seen that great day of glory and disaster at Yorktown which terminated that campaign, and with it the War of Independence. A short time previous, while on a scouting-party between Richmond and Petersburg, he was taken by the troops under Lafayette, and sent a prisoner to Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He remained here until peace was proclaimed; but the general amnesty brought no freedom for the captive Briton. He had become entangled in a flaxon net stronger than the bonds of war, and the meek eyes of a Quaker maiden had more enduring power than the bayonets of the patriot regiments. Forgetting his loyalty to King and country, the ex-soldier embraced the sweet incarnation of peace, and bowed his martial neck to the gentle yoke, which he has worn with exemplary patience and constancy for seventy-and-seven years. Hannah Keine, the amiable Friend whose charms have so long led captivity captive, was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania, in 1755, and is at this day one hundred and three years of age. She is erect, active in her movements, in full possession of all her faculties, and is still the tidy, thrifty, bustling mistress of the household she has ruled for more than three-quarters of a century. Eight children are the fruits of this union, the eldest of whom is in his seventy-sixth year; the youngest is fifty-four. Six of these have married, and the aggregate result is sixty-two grandchildren. One died, we are told, when between fifty and sixty years old, and the sorrowing mother was heard to say, in a tone of resignation,

"Well, it was always a weakly child, and I never expected to raise it."

Their daughter, Hannah, still lives a maiden, and true to her filial duties. She is now "hard on" to sixty; and as we saw her tripping, barefoot, from the corn patch (where she had been hoeing), we were not impressed with the idea that Time had been anywise lenient in his dealings with her. In view of these things, some good-natured neighbor lately ventured to suggest that it was high time she was looking out for a settlement, and following the example of her brothers and sisters.

"Ah!" said the old man, "I hope she'll have the grace to wait till I am gone. It can't be many years now. But, " he continued, with a sigh, "who knows? These young gals are so uncertain!"

Then we were reminded of the ancient arrow-maker and his touching grief--"Thus it is our children leave us!"

The company has paid its respects to the incarnate centuries, and the artists, with rapid pencils, are making notes of the scene. In the centre is the old man, bowed upon his staff, and holding to his wife's arm, as she stands stark and stiff, like an umbrella stuck into a blue cotton case - for superfluity of skirts and crinoline were not of her day and generation. His iron frame is evidently yielding to the weight of years. Deaf, dim-eyed, his heavy jaw relaxed, his face wears ordinarily a look of vacuity; but bring him a goblet crowned with generous wine, or, what is more potent, though less poetical, a tin of old whisky - the milk of age - his hearing and eyesight will quickly improve, and he will discourse freely and intelligently of his past life; speaking of men and things belonging to our early history as the occurrences and acquaintances of yesterday.

Among the excursionists was an attache' of the British Legation at Washington - a young soldier decorated for gallant conduct on the bloody parapets of the Redan.

"Father Church, let us introduce a countryman - an Englishman, and a soldier like yourself."

The old man took the extended hand mechanically, but his dull eyes gave us no sign.

"Bring here the bugle."

The instrument was brought, and the young officer sounded one of the martial airs of England. Old Hundred stood up as if his blood had been warmed with wine, and his face flashed with intelligence.

"I know it - I know it - An Englishman and a soldier did you say? Ay, and a brave lad, I'll warrant."

It was a touching and thought-compelling scene to see these two together. The old man, eighty years ago, had landed on our shores an armed invader to aid in crushing out the spirit of revolt in the feeble and disorganized colonies that bordered the Atlantic coast. With the sound of that martial bugle call he doubtless hears the roll of musketry and the deep growl of cannon. Unconscious of the misty present, he sees with the eyes of youth the scarlet battalions of his King marching and manoeuvring in vain to force the wary and vigilant host of the rebels to untimely battle. Cornwallis, Tarleton, Lafayette, Lee - these are the names that fill his thoughts. With all these memories fresh in his brain he stands face to face, grasping the hand of the youth, who, member of a lordly embassy, has come to bear friendly greeting from Old England to the Great Nation of the western continent - a nation whose bounds extend from ocean to ocean; whose ships are in every sea; whose civilization, illuminating the breadth of the New World, reflects back upon the Old, light for light.

Before the last royal soldier that treads our soil shall have passed away may the memory of oppression, war, and hatred sink into the grave of oblivion; while hopeful, strong, and true as youth, may friendship spring between nations of kindred blood, laws, language, and religion!

An Overview of Highland County History

Compiled from "The History of Highland County" By Oren F. Morton, 1922.

Like Pendleton, Highland has Shenandoah Mountain on the east and the Allegheny Front on the west. Its geographic features are therefore very much like those of the northern county. But since its valleys are crossed by the series of saddle-ridges that separate the waters of the Potomac from those of the James, the average elevation is greater and the climate is cooler. The first line between Pendleton and Augusta followed the cross-divide and was consequently a natural boundary. Furthermore, the first settlers south of the divide were almost wholly Scotch-Irish. North of it the German element was much in the lead. But in 1796 the Pendleton line was moved southward from four to twelve miles, and so remained until 1847.

The magisterial districts of Highland, counting from west to east, are Bluegrass, Monterey, and Stonewall. The area of the county is 390 square miles. The population in 1850 was 4227. In 1900 it had risen to 5647. In 1910 it had fallen to 5317, and in 1920 to 4931.

The choice lands south of the saddle-divide were covered by an order of council issued in 1748 to Andrew Lewis and certain associates. Settlement began in 1746, but perhaps in 1745.

The formation of Highland in 1847 was not so much because Pendleton and Bath were too long as because the Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike had been opened in 1838. This circumstance gave the Highland area an important advantage.

County government was organized May 20, 1847 in the house of John Cook, which stood near a spring behind the office of E. B. Jones in the town of Monterey. The first justices were George W. Amiss, Emmanuel Arbogast, Abel H. Armstrong, David H. Bird, James Brown, Andrew H. Byrd, James B. Campbell, Benjamin Fleisher, George Hicklin, Peter Hull, Thomas Jones, John H. Pullin, Samuel Ruckman, John Sitlington, Reuben Slaven, Adam Stephenson Sr. , and Charles Steuart.

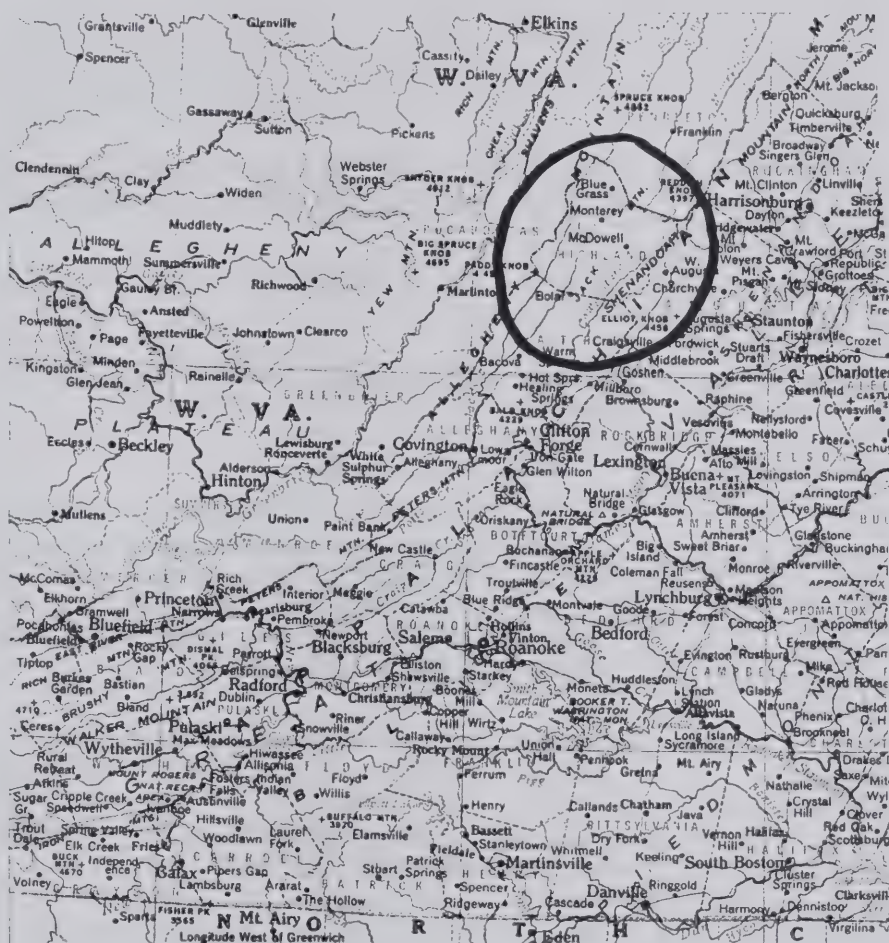

Major Peter Hull, was the first sheriff and his deputies were David G. McClung and Peter H. Kinkead. Adam Stephenson Jr. Was the first clerk, and Thomas Campbell the first surveyor. The constables for the five districts into which the county was set off were Andrew J. Jones, John M. Rexrode, James H. Ryder, Houston F. Gwin, and William S. Thompson.

A contract for the courthouse and jail was awarded to Robert Johnson for $4935. The voting places established in 1847 were Samuel Ruckman's and Sitlington's mill in Bluegrass, John Cook's and John Wiley's in Monterey, and William McClung's and the village of McDowell in Stonewall.

The members of the first grand jury were George Carlile (fOrenan), Thomas Beverage, George H. Bird, John Chestnut, George Colaw, William Curry, Adam Fox, Moses Gwin, James Gwin, John C. Gwin, William T. Johns, John Lightner, Jacob Newman. Thomas Parks, Loftus Pullin, David Steuart, David Varner, John Vandevender, Sampson Wagoner, Samuel Wilson, and Amos Wimer.

The most conspicuous events of the Indian wars were a battle near the head of the North Fork, the attack on the home of William Wilson on Jackson's River, and the building of Fort George on the farm of L. M. McClung. The chief events of the Civil War were the battle of McDowell, May 8, 1862, and the raids by Federal Cavalry in 1863 and 1864.

West Virginia's oldest and largest behavioral health facility. Weston Hospital, is located in the city of Weston. Although authorized on March 11, 1858, by an act of the Virginia Assembly, the opening was delayed by the Civil War until October 11, 1864. Today Weston Hospital serves West Virginia citizens requiring acute and extended care services.

The hospital, the oldest stone cut structure in the United States, is listed on the National Register for Historical Preservation and identified as a National Historical Landmark. A new hospital will completed and occupied in March, 1994. State of the art for 150 persons will be provided.

Weston Hospital is currently divided into seven functional units: two admissions, three extended care, one specialized geriatric/medical, and one unit for patients awaiting discharge. The hospital's main objective is to provide a full range of psychiatric services to patients with acute or severe and mental illness. Individual treatment plans are developed and regularly reviewed for each patient admitted. Services include psychiatric, social work, psychological, spiritual, rehabilitative, nursing, recreation and education. Services are provided through a interdisciplinary treatment team approach.

Cooperative programs with West Virginia University, including the School of Medicine, and other nearby higher institutions have proven beneficial to health care students, staff and patients.

Thomas Jonathan Jackson
1824-1863

Thomas Jonathan Jackson was born in West Virginia, on January 21, 1824. He died a tragic death on May 10, 1863. Jackson was a very famous man, and a Confederate general in the Civil War. This man was one of the best and most able southerners, second only to Robert E. Lee. At the first battle of Bull Run, Jackson's small group of troops were facing overwhelming odds but they formed a strong line and held their ground. At the sight of this, General Barnard Bee of South Carolina said, "There is Jackson's line over there standing like a stone wall." After this statement Thomas Jackson was given the name "Stonewall".

When Stonewall Jackson was a boy, he was orphaned at a very young age. From there he was raised by his uncle, Cummins Jackson, a who lived near Weston, West Virginia now known as Jackson's Mill. As a young man, Thomas received sketchy schooling but he worked hard. After lots of work, he secured an appointment to the United States Military Academy in 1842. Since Jackson had inconsistent schooling in his background, he had to work a whole lot harder than his fellow cadets to understand the concepts that needed to be learned. After even more hard work, Jackson fought his way to the seventh place in the class by the time he had graduated in June of 1846.

Once Jackson received his commission as lieutenant of artillery, he was immediately assigned to Mexico, where he first met Robert E. Lee. After showing lots of dedication, he was awarded the rank of major. In July, 1848, Jackson returned to the United States. During that year he served at various forts. In October, 1850, he and his company were sent to the Seminole Indian Country in Florida to fight them. In 1851, Jackson left the army and became a teacher at VMI. After ten years of teaching, he joined the Confederate Army in 1861. By this time he had married to Elinor Junkin, and after her death, he remarried Mary Morrison.

In 1861, Stonewall Jackson joined the Confederate Army. He favored preservation of the Union, but when Virginia seceded, he went with it. When the first battle of Bull Run started, Jackson was unknown but he soon developed a strong reputation. In 1862, Jackson fought in the Shenandoah Valley and at this point he had gained national fame. At this battle Jackson defeated nearly sixty thousand Union troops with only 17,000 of his own troops backing him up. After the campaign had ended, Jackson hurried to General Lee's support at the battle of Richmond. At this battle, Lee's army tried to drive the Union troops into the James River. Only after costly fighting, the Union troops barely escaped. Following that battle, Jackson fought in the Seven Day's Battles, the second battle of Bull Run, and the battle of Fredericksburg. In May 1863, at the battle of Chancellorsville, Jackson's men struck and drove the enemy back with great force. At the break of nightfall, Jackson went away to scout. As he was coming back, some of his own men mistook him for the enemy, and shot him. Eight days after he was shot, Jackson died of pneumonia.

The Soul in humble submission

After 151 years Elizabeth Church has finally become a published Poet.

Is low down in that beautiful valley
Where love crowns the meek and the lovely
Where no storms of envy or folly
Can ever roll their billows again!

The meek come in humble subjection
Can there find unshaken protection
The soft gaze of cheery reflection
The mind soothed from sorrow and pain

This low vale is free from contention
Where no soul can dream of election
Where no wild or cruel intention
Can find out this region of peace

Is there there the Lord will deliver
And souls drink of that beautiful river
Where peace flows for ever and ever
And love and joy for ever increase

~~Those~~ ~~there~~ ~~who~~ ~~by~~ ~~storms~~ ~~have~~ ~~been~~ ~~driven~~
Shall move ~~their~~ ^{haver} bark in that beautiful
And these back in the same shine of heaven
And triumph in immortal name

Tis their their ~~in~~ yonders bright glory
We'll shout and sing and tell the glad story
And when we've passed cold jordan ^{over} quite We'll sing hallelujah to God and the Lamb

STILL WITH A LEAD COIL IS TAKEN IN RAID

DD 7

Is Taken From Residence of Jerry Church, 95, Raiding Officers Report

A ten-gallon moonshine still equipped with a rubber hose connecting the retort with a lead coil, capable of making only poison liquor, according to Prohibition Commissioner O. E. Summers; three barrels of mash and five gallons of moonshine liquor were confiscated by Deputies Summers and Humphrey Lee and Constable Harley Stewart on Big Run early Saturday morning, they reported.

Arrested in the raid were Jerry Church, 95; his grandson, James Church, 20, and Sam Dickenson, a son-in-law. The latter made his escape from the officers at the time of the raid, but was later arrested in Riverdale by Constable Stewart.

In addition to the lead coil, the rubber hose is also capable of poisoning the liquor manufactured by the still confiscated by the officers, Summers said. "It is bad enough to make it non-killing, but to deliberately use a poisoning instrument in the process is pretty poor service for their customers," Summers declared.

Valley Forge

the site in Pennsylvania where, from December 19, 1777, to June 19, 1778, the American forces, led by Gen. George Washington, camped. Coming on the heels of defeats at Brandywine and Germantown during the American Revolution, the winter at Valley Forge was the darkest hour of the Revolution for the colonists. Neglected by the Continental Congress, the men lacked food, clothing, shoes, and supplies. Of an estimated 10,000 troops, about 2,500 died. By spring, however, under the tutelage of Baron von Steuben, the Continental army had become disciplined and well trained. The area now is a national historic park.

The County of Amelia is rich in history and her citizens take an active interest in her past. The County, named for Princess Amelia, daughter of George II of England, was created by a legislative act in 1734, and in 1735, it was created from Prince George and Brunswick Counties. Then, in 1754, Prince Edward County was formed from Amelia County, and later the County was reduced to its current size when Nottoway County was separated in 1789.

During the Revolutionary War, in 1781, Amelia was raided by British forces under General Tarleton. Eighty-four years later, the Amelia County records amazingly survived through the Civil War. According to legend, they were saved in April, 1865 because Federal General George Custer, of Little Big Horn fame, placed a guard over the Amelia County Clerk's Office with orders that all records be preserved.

The County of Amelia's Courthouse, located on a two-acre square in the center of the village, was moved several times before finally reaching its present location. The first Courthouse, located near Pridesville, was destroyed by fire in 1766. Another location for the Courthouse was chosen at Dennisville. In 1849, the Courthouse was moved to its present location. The Courthouse building presently in use was constructed in 1924. A Confederate Monument, erected in 1905 by the Amelia Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, stands in the courtyard in honor of the sons of Amelia County who served the Confederacy. General Robert E. Lee and his Army spent the days of April 4 and 5 at Amelia Courthouse on the retreat to Appomattox in 1865.

The last major battle of the Civil War was fought at what is now Sailor's (Sayler's) Creek Battlefield Historical State Park located on the western edge of Amelia County. The 220-acre state-owned battlefield is operated by the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation through its Division of State Parks. The Sailor's (Sayler's) Creek site commemorates the battle which took place on April 6, 1865. In this battle alone, General Lee lost half his army during the three days of conflicts. The Confederate Army suffered a crippling defeat which led to General Robert E. Lee's surrender at Appomattox seventy-two hours later. The Hillsman House, restored in 1945 and located at the park, was used as a federal field hospital during the battle. The park offers an audio tour with maps and markers of the battlefield. Reenactments of the Sailor's (Sayler's) Creek Battle are also held in the park.

COLLINS SETTLEMENT

The Collins Settlement district stretches from the West Fork River to the Little Kanawha River. Today empty buildings and run down homes dot the country side. The settlement was once called Egypt because of the fertility of the soil.

The first settlers in the area were Dan Turvey, James Keith, William Bennett, Sr and John Collins, Jr. The tract was surveyed in 1785. It included a fifty acre tract that was purchased by John Collins, Jr. Rev. Henry Camden came to the area in 1820 and established the Methodist Episcopal church.

Today people come to Collins Settlement to view the Stonewall Jackson lake and the beautiful scenery.

ORLANDO

Orlando is located in the counties of Braxton and Lewis. The town was originally called Confluence because it was near the junction of Clover Fork and Oil Creek. It was also confused with Confluence, Pennsylvania. It was renamed Orlando in 1907 by J.A. Tierney. At one time, someone thought that it should be named Skinnersville.

The first settlers to the area in 1827 were Alexander Skinner who owned the land where Orlando was located, and his half-brother Alfred Posey. John Riffle came to the area in 1835 and built a small mill. He was later killed during the Civil War. Other settlers were the Carneys, Greenes, Griffins, Kennedys, Dolans, Barnetts, Rushes, Henlines, and Parmers.

There were two railroad stations. They were the Union Station and the Coal and Coke Station. Richard Skinner owned a restaurant near the Union Station. Mary Jo and Nell Dolan ran the Dolan Hotel. They also sold box lunches to the train passengers. Mike Rush owned the Rush Hotel and a livery stable. Margaret Kraus kept the boarding house. She was Mike Rushes daughter. The undertaker ran the dance hall which was across Oil Creek. He stored the hearse inside when it was not in use. Nathan Parmer was a blacksmith.

There were six churches in the area. The United Brethren, The Methodist, The Baptist, The Mormon, and The Saint Michaels Catholic Church. The Methodist Church was built on land donated by Alexander Skinner. Only the Baptist and Methodist churches remain.

Safely Home

I am home in Heaven, dear ones;
 Oh, so happy and so bright
There is perfect joy and beauty
 In this everlasting light
All the pain and grief is over,
 Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
 Safely home in Heaven at last.
There is work still waiting for you
 So you must not idly stand;
Do it now while life remaineth –
 You shall rest in God's own land.
When that work is all completed,
 He will gently call you Home;
Oh, the rapture of that meeting,
 Oh, the joy to see you come!

HUSBAND William Lucious CHURCH

NOTES:

William L. Church could read and write. He enjoyed reading the bible. William was a carpenter and cobbler. He built his home on E. Clark Street in Auburn, Indiana which had a parlour for special occasions. There was a spring house connected to the main house. This is where the laundry and canning was done. There was a sistern under the floor that caught the rainwater which was used for drinking and cooking. This water kept the house cool in the summer. William and Rosa also had a well. They had a push-cart which was used to carry corn which was gleaned from a home nearby. The corn was shucked and shelled and the cobs were burned for heat. William drank hot water with every meal. Once in a while he added sugar. He had a wagon and a horse named Goldie. He went to town to gather scraps for the pigs. He also had chickens.

WIFE Rosa Blanche PARMER

NOTES:

Rosa B. Church could not read or write. She enjoyed listening to the radio. Rosa chewed snuff which was prescribed by her doctor as a cure-all. The preacher from her church came to the house to read the bible to her after William died. Rosa Church loved to can fruits and vegetables. She always had a garden. There were gooseberries, quince, grapes, apples, cherries, pears, raspberries, blackberries, and rhubarb growing in her back yard. There was a grocery store near the house. Rosa would go there and bought whatever she needed. She was very conservative with money.

LIPSTICK NEARLY BARRED A

GIRL FROM BEAUTY CONTEST

Miss Cincinnati was Unable to Appear at Atlantic City until a Spare Bathing Suit was Located

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 5. — I can't call this dispatch, "Murder at the Beauty Pageant," because Miss Cincinnati has not learned yet who pushed her to sit down on a lipstick. If she had been wearing a red bath-suit it wouldn't have been so bad. There was Miss Cincinnati, known to the homefolks as Miss Lorraine Bond, waiting in the dressing room for her turn to walk briskly down the runways before the judges and 7,000 other goggle-eyed beauty lovers at the 25th annual Miss America contest. Her suit was white. It was tight. It was designed, according to its manufacturer, to attract attention.

Miss Cincinnati was nervous. She sat down. As I reconstruct the crime, miscreant in another bathing suit leaked over while the band was playing its loudest and inserted her lipstick, of the shade known as tiger-toman, between the chair and Miss Cincinnati.

Scrunch! Miss Cincinnati feared the worst. Because a girl in a bathing costume stretched taut can't sit on a lipstick without realizing it. Or so said Miss Cincinnati. Up she jumped. She looked in the mirror. E-e-ek!

There was trouble in a lady-like way backstage at the Atlantic City municipal auditorium. The chaplains agreed that as now costumed, Miss Cincinnati would attract more attention than advertised. The wardrobe department was fresh out of white bathing suits, size 36. Miss Cincinnati was on what you'd describe accurately as a spot.

HENRY A. WATSON, 34, FUGITIVE

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 5. — Sheriff Albert Skirvin said today he had played 30-year-old Henry A. Watson, a fugitive from a murder case, at Noblesville, Ind., yesterday.

Watson, who was charged with the murder of a woman, was taken into custody at Noblesville yesterday.

Watson changed in the death of the 30-year-old woman. But he denied the charge and told authorities that a third man, Watson, had spent considerable time with the victim.

Scott's headless body was found on a lonely knoll Sunday. His head had been severed with a double-edged ax.

Police and sheriff's deputies probed the general vicinity near the small cabin which Scott lived in near here. They said Lewis admitted living with Scott for several weeks recently. All three met at a Rock Island, Ill., tavern months ago.

Skirvin said Lewis told him that he and Watson borrowed Scott's automobile, which they wrecked at Browns-town several weeks ago. After paying a fine for a traffic violation, Lewis said he hitchhiked to Kentucky. Watson disappeared.

Lewis said he had not seen Scott nor Watson since that time. A coroner's report indicated Scott had been dead almost three weeks when his body was found Sunday by a neighbor.

"The car was so full of personal belongings that there wasn't room for a second person," Skirvin said.

The sheriff said Lewis answered the description of the man neighbors had seen with the murder victim.

"He appears to be the same man who lived in a rooming house with Scott at Rock Island, Ill., before they came to Bloomington six weeks ago," Skirvin said.

The city of Peru had claimed the 2,300-acre installation and plans for establishment of a new cattle research laboratory had been announced.

CALLS ON TWO CANDIDATES TO GET OFF OF THE BALLOT

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—State Democratic Chairman Elnfred Core said today if two St. Joseph County nominees ignore the request of their county chairman to withdraw from the election ballot "I don't know any way to get them off."

Core said he backs St. Joseph County Chairman Ideal Baldoni sr., in his request to Prosecutor Patrick Brennan and County Commissioner John Solmos to resign as nominees.

Core insisted he was not prejudging the two men, who have not been charged, but were mentioned in connection with a bribe report.

"When I was county chairman, I knew more about what effect something would have in my county than the state chairman did," Core said. "I've not talked to Brennan or Solmos and have no intention of doing so. I'm just saying that I stand behind what the county chairman feels is the best thing to do."

Brennan has denied that he received $5,000 which a Walkerton funeral director told newsmen he paid through Solmos to gain acquittal on a Lake County traffic accident charge. The incident is one of several contained in a petition filed by the Northwest Indiana Crime Commission in seeking disbarment of former Lake County Prosecutor Metro Holovachka. No action has been taken by the Indiana Supreme Court on the petition.

Core conceded that "if this matter is not settled and Brennan and Solmos still are on the ticket in November, it will hurt the party in St. Joseph County."

"But I don't know any way to get them off. They are the people's choice," he added.

GOV. WELSH UPBRAIDED FOR RETURNING GROUP OF FLAGS

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Governor Welsh was upbraided today by a woman official of a veterans organization because Civil War battle flags found stored in the War Memorial basement are being returned to the states from which they were captured.

Senior vice-president Bertha Opp of the World War I Auxiliary in Aurora wrote Welsh primarily to protest his request that the Civil Liberties Union be allowed to use the state-owned memorial.

"I also am unhappy that you would take the liberty of returning the articles from the War Memorial to the different states," she wrote.

"These flags and trophies were given to the War Memorial to keep by the families of The Veterans of Civil War. I don't think you should have taken these flags which is the property of the State of Indiana."

"In our family, we have many trophies and it has been suggested that we give them to the War Memorial as they would be kept intact and I am glad that we have neglected to give them to the Memorial after the action of returning the flags to the states."

At the time Jack Trowbridge, executive secretary of the Memorial, found the flags during a house-cleaning at the Memorial, there was no indication how the flags reached the building's basement.

FORMER AUBURN RESIDENT DIES AT MORRISVILLE, PA.

A former resident of Auburn, Mrs. Grace Conrad Eby, 70, of Morrisville, Pa., died at her home late Monday afternoon from a heart seizure.

Word of her death was received in Auburn by a sister, Mrs. Sam Davenport of 334 West Ninth street. Mrs. Eby had apparently not been ill before her sudden death.

Mrs. Eby was born at St. Joe on March 5, 1892, and was the daughter of the late A. H. and Josephine Conrad. While she was a student the family moved to Auburn and she graduated from Auburn high school.

She was the wife of A. J. Eby and she left Auburn approximately 15 years ago.

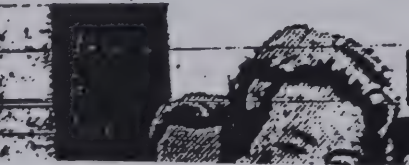

Surviving in addition to the sister in Auburn are three sons, Alton of Morrisville, Ted and James of Morrisville, and a number of grandchildren.

Deadly tornado central part c

By The Associated Press
When a deadly tornado touched down on a sparsely populated spot in Montgomery County, there was no shortage of people volunteering to search for the missing and start cleaning up property that was destroyed.

"Everybody was wanting to come out and help," said Robert Coudret, the county's chief deputy. "The biggest problem was the power lines were down and we wanted to keep the community away for their safety."

"But there were plenty of people wanting to help," he said Sunday evening.

The storms that began late Saturday and continued into Sunday morning brought high winds, lightning, thunderstorms and tornado reports to eight Indiana counties. They damaged homes, farm equipment and businesses, downed power lines and trees and caused some flooding, officials said.

There were two deaths and several reported injuries, one of them serious. There was no total dollar estimate on the damage.

The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul. He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil
for thou art with me, thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies
thou anointest my head with oil
my cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow
me all the days of my life
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever

Proves Fatal to Auburn
Young Man

Charles Church, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Church, died Wednesday morning at 4:30 o'clock at the family home on North Clark street, Highland addition, East Auburn, as the result of sinus trouble which developed into abscesses of the brain. He had been sick since January 1st of this year and for the last six weeks he had been bedfast.

One of a family of twelve children, the young man was born in Spencer-ville, DeKalb county, 23 years ago on September 13th. He came with his parents to Auburn about twenty years ago. He went to school in this city, reaching the eighth grade and was compelled to quit because of a rupture. Since quitting school he had worked by the day.

He is survived by his parents, three brothers and four sisters: George at home, Ira of South Bend, and Clarence, whose present address is not known to the family; Mrs. Florence Bassett of North Clark street, Ruth and Alice at home and Mrs. Viola Barto of Garrett. The remaining children are deceased.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, DST from Dilgard Bros. funeral home with Rev. Frank Crabill, pastor of the First Church of God, officiating, assisted by Rev. Herman H. Hedges, former pastor of the church. Burial will be made in Woodlawn cemetery. The body was removed from the funeral home to the residence of the parents Wednesday afternoon.

GENERAL DECLINE TODAY ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE

Traders Feared that Bonus Forces would Attach Rider to Roosevelt Tax Bill

New York, June 26.—Fears that the bonus forces would attach a bonus rider to any tax bill drawn to meet President Roosevelt's suggestions brought a general decline into the stock market near the close today after a fair display of steadiness in the earlier trading.

Issues from all groups made lows for the day in the last half hour without particular pickup in volume. Gains were wiped out in many instances and losses substituted. Losers extended their declines.

Late in the day the market was down fractions to more than a point: U. S. Smelting which touched 110 when directors ordered a dividend of $2 a share, double the preceding payment, dropped to around 105, off 1 1/4. Silver metal was steadier in world markets.

American Telephone, recent favorite, broke 2 points, and so did American Can. Losses of a point or more were made by such issues as Atchafalpa, Chesapeake and Ohio, DuPont, Liggett & Myers B. Standard Oil of

QUINTUPLET KITTENS GIVEN NAMES OF DIONNE INFANTS

Huntington, Ind., June 26.—Quintuplet kittens at the Rex Arlington home in this city have been named Yvonne, Cecile, Emelie, Marie, and Annette, after the Dionne children who recently celebrated their first birthday.

If revision of the names is needed, the women say, that can be done later when other homes are found for the cats.

ENGINEER TELLS OF CRASH ON CROSSING

Testifies Before Jury that Coal and Dust on Truck Showered
Locomotive Just Like a Cloudburst

Driving his Cincinnati-bound passenger train seventy miles an hour south from Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 5, 1934, Frank A. Gibson of Cleveland, a locomotive engineer, was startled to have his fireman, H. M. Collier, shout to him to look out for a crossing crash.

Gibson told a jury in the DeKalb circuit court Wednesday that he took his hand from the whistle valve, snatched off the throttle and threw the brakes into emergency. At that instant the engine struck the trailer of a truck driven by Virgil Joseph of Cairo, Ohio.

What followed was just like a cloudburst, Gibson said. The truck that was hit was loaded with coal and coal and dust showered the locomotive and broke the windows. "I ducked behind the boiler to save myself," said Gibson. The pony trucks, or the front wheels of the engine, left the rails and pounded along the ties as the train went on. The shock of the collision resulted in the detachment of the engine from the cars. Gibson and his fireman hastened to put out the fire in the firebox to keep the engine from burning up.

Finally the engine came to a stop 3,100 feet from the crossing and the cars stopped a short distance in the rear. The trainmen discovered that the driver of the truck had been fatally injured when his machine overturned in a ditch beside the tracks. His brother, and the administrator of his estate, Earl Joseph, afterward filed suit for $68,000 damages.

Contrary to allegations made by the plaintiff, Engineer Gibson insisted that he sounded the bell and whistle, as the rules prescribe, for the crossing at Edison, which is between Gallion and Delaware. The train was No. 35, with seven cars. With forty-five years' experience of railroading behind him, this was Gibson's first experience as a witness in a lawsuit.

Other witnesses for the railroad gave the measurements of the railroad, the highway, telegraph poles and buildings having to do with the view of the railroad to persons using the highway, the purpose being to attempt to prove that the accident

ALASKA COLONISTS TELL OF DISCONTENT

Believe that Government has Bungled Colonization Scheme that Moved Them from U. S. Farms

(Editor's note—A United Press correspondent made a first hand investigation of conditions in Matanuska Valley of Alaska where the United States government is colonizing Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota farm families ruined by drought. Various charges have been made against the project, some few coming through the small communications facilities, from the colonists themselves.)

(Copyright 1935, by United Press)
Palmer, Alaska, June 26.—A large majority of the "new pioneers" of the Matanuska Valley are discontented and believe the federal government has bungled the colonization scheme that moved them from Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota farms to this fertile wilderness.

Pioneers said lack of proper tools and supplies and clashes between administration forces seriously endangered the success of the project. They were angry chiefly over failure of the authorities to have permanent roofs completed for the 2,000 men, women and children transplanted to this sub-Arctic zone from the temperate climate of the United States.

The pioneers directed their principal criticism at the corps of transient workers who preceded them here to grub stumps, build roads, cut logs and erect cabins. They have done only 10 percent of the work expected of them, they charged. Meanwhile, the farm families are living in tents, their fears of what is to come increasing. The rainy season is due within a few weeks.

The colonists said the entire project had suffered from too much long range administration. Much of the executive authority is exerted from Washington, they said, while some comes from Juneau, capital of Alaska, and hundreds of miles from the valley.

Pointing to examples, the colonists

AUBURN YOUTH, 19, COMMITTS SUICIDE

William Church, Jr., was Despondent Over His Failure to Meet $10 Payment on Used Car--Shoots Himself with Shotgun

Despondent over his failure to meet a $10 payment on his Chevrolet roadster which was to have been re-possessed today, William Church Jr., aged 19, committed suicide early Tuesday morning. The tragedy took place shortly after breakfast time in the barn at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Church of Clark street, Highland Addition, East Auburn.

The young man placed a 12 gauge double barreled Remington shotgun in his right temple and the charge destroyed the entire cranium. Dr. Ben O. Shook of Spencerville, the Dekalb county coroner, declared.

The suicide was found by his brother, Charles Church, who went to the barn after doing some work in the garage. Charles was not aware of his brother's death until he looked over the manger to the hay storage of the barn and the gruesome sight met his eyes. William was laying on his back with the gun across his legs.

The youth appeared depressed on Monday. He had been informed by the automobile dealer in Kendallville from whom he bought the used car that unless he met the payment, a month overdue, he would come to Auburn on Tuesday and take the roadster. The young man tried several times on Monday and Monday night to secure the money but had been unable to do so. Taking the gun after breakfast he informed members of the family he was going to the barn to shoot rats.

The young man had been employed as a gardener about town and did trucking. He was one of a family of nine children. The father is in a serious condition in bed. He had been in poor health for some time with rheumatism and neuritis.

William attended the Auburn schools until about the eighth grade. He was born on September 15, 1913.

Surviving are the parents and the following brothers and sisters: Charles, George, Ruth and Alice, living at home, Mrs. Florence Bassett of Auburn, Mrs. Viola Bartels of Garrett, Ira of South Bend and Clarence whose residence is unknown.

The body was removed to Dilgard Bros. funeral home.

Dr. Shook after an inquest rendered a verdict of suicide.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of the parents, Rev. Herman Hedges, pastor of the First Church of God, officiating. Burial will be made in Woodlawn cemetery.

BULLET RIDDLED BODY OF BANDIT HURLED FROM AUTO

Chicago, March 21. The body of a man believed by police to be Joseph Hanley, known as "Coffin Joe," a notorious bandit, was found in South Chicago Heights today, apparently a victim of a gang war.

Hanley was wanted in Pontiac, Ill., South Bend, Ind., and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for robberies.

The body, riddled by a dozen bullets was recovered from a ditch beside a lonely road. The man was well-dressed and apparently had been tossed from an automobile.

A Chicago Heights oil station proprietor identified the body as that of a bandit who shot an attendant in robbing his station recently.

IMPROVEMENT IN BANKING SITUATION

Seventy Percent of Financial Institutions in Nation Now Operating Without Re- strictions

(Copyright 1933 by United Press)
New York, March 21. — Seventy percent of the nation's banks now are operating in all normal functions, without restrictions of any nature, a United Press survey revealed today.

Of the remaining 30 per cent, approximately half are open for partial business, their only restrictions being to limit the large withdrawal of deposits.

Only approximately 10 per cent of the banks are completely closed, and of these at least half are undergoing reorganization or mergers intended to permit their reopening on a sound basis.

In several federal reserve districts officials were not ready to announce the figures on member banks now operating, since the number is constantly increasing. In other sections, notably Colorado, all banks were functioning under restrictions laid down by the governor. All 101 Colorado banks, for example, were open for greatly restricted business, limiting withdrawals to 5 per cent, and being permitted to use scrip. The United Press survey, however, lists

ESCAPING CONVICTS RIDE BACK TO CELLS IN BOX CAR

Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 21. — Had not three Alabama convicts hopped another freight train, they might have been sent to the gallows.

The three convicts, after escaping from prison camp Sun 4 miles here, boarded a freight train, creaked into an empty box car and went to sleep. When they awoke they found the car had been chained to a derrick inside the walls of Spanish Fort.

Guards called them at 3 a. m., and served them food and coffee.

HOUSE VOTES FOR DRASTIC GAG RULE

Action Virtually Assures Pas- sage of Farm Relief Bill Asked by Pres. Roose- velt

Washington, Mar. 21. The house democratic leadership today rode rough-shod over a protesting minority to jam through a drastic gag rule for consideration of the $1,000,000,000 (B) Roosevelt farm relief program.

The vote was 184 to 102.

The action virtually assured passage of the measure essentially as outlined by the president. Debate is limited to four hours and all amendments are barred.

Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee, who refused to introduce the bill because he did not adhere to some of its provisions, nevertheless told the chamber that the measure deserved support.

"We have been discussing the farm problem for 10 years," he said. "Now we are in a desperate emergency. Why quibble about rules and amendments?"

"While this war is on, I'm not going to quarrel with the commander-in-chief. I'm in favor of giving these emergency powers to the president. I am sure he will relinquish them when the emergency is passed."

Rep. Clarke, Repn., N. Y., compared the measure to a jigsaw puzzle and said it seemed to be patterned on theories from Soviet Russia.

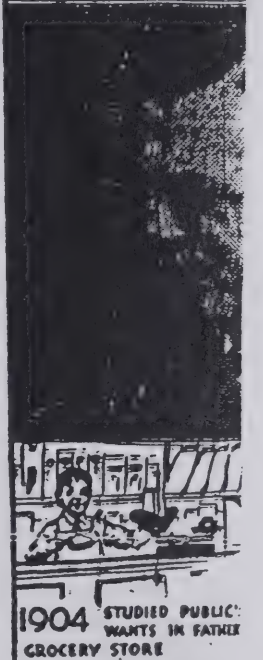

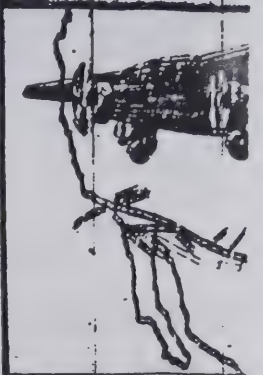

"Despite all the horror in this bill," he shouted, "I'm going to support it. I'm going to follow the president of the United States. We've got to follow somebody."

Some democratic leaders feared victory would come only at the price of party discord, loss of republican support, and an end to the period of enthusiastic co-operation which swept the first Roosevelt emergency measures through congress with little opposition.

None dared predict the fate of the farm bill in the senate. Mr. Roosevelt at a conference last night, with leaders of both parties was informed, frankly the opposition was so strong that passage of the bill in its present form was problematical.

Hainey said the conferees agreed action should be taken soon to reduce the farm mortgage burden, a project which many senators consider more important than the administration's experimental program to boost farm prices. Whether assistance at all on mortgages

God's Garden

God looked around His garden, and He found an empty place. He then looked down upon this earth, and saw your tired face. He put His arms around you, and lifted you to rest; God's garden must be beautiful, He only takes the best. He knew that you were suffering, He knew you were in pain, He knew that you would never get well on earth again. So He closed your weary eyelids, and whispered "Peace be thine." It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone; for part of us went with you, the day God called you home.

Mima Church, the year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Church of East Auburn, who died Saturday of pneumonia, was buried in Woodlawn cemetery Sunday afternoon, following services at the home, conducted by Rev. F. A. Hall.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who assisted us during the illness and death of our daughter, Mima, the undertaker, Ray C. Dillgard; and the minister, Rev. F. A. Hall. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Church.

PNEUMONIA TAKES LIFE OF ELEVEN MONTHS OLD BABY

Pneumonia, which has been taking its toll of lives in and around Auburn the past few days, claimed the life of Floyd Church, the eleven-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Church of East Auburn, Tuesday night.

The child's illness was of short duration, as he only took sick Friday. Death came Tuesday night about 10 o'clock. Besides the parents, there are eight other children surviving.

The father is ill with pneumonia and while some of the other children have been sick, too, yet they are improving. The funeral of Floyd will be held from the home Thursday afternoon and will be in charge of the Rev. F. A. Hall.

Calling Tuesday for Lewis M. Shaffer

Lewis M. Shaffer, 74, of LaJara, Colo., died Thursday in Alamosa, Colo. He had lived in LaJara for the past 12 years. Prior to that he was a Garrett resident.

Friends may call from 2 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at McKee-Miles Funeral Home. Services will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the funeral home with Rev. James R. Moore, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Embrey Cemetery.

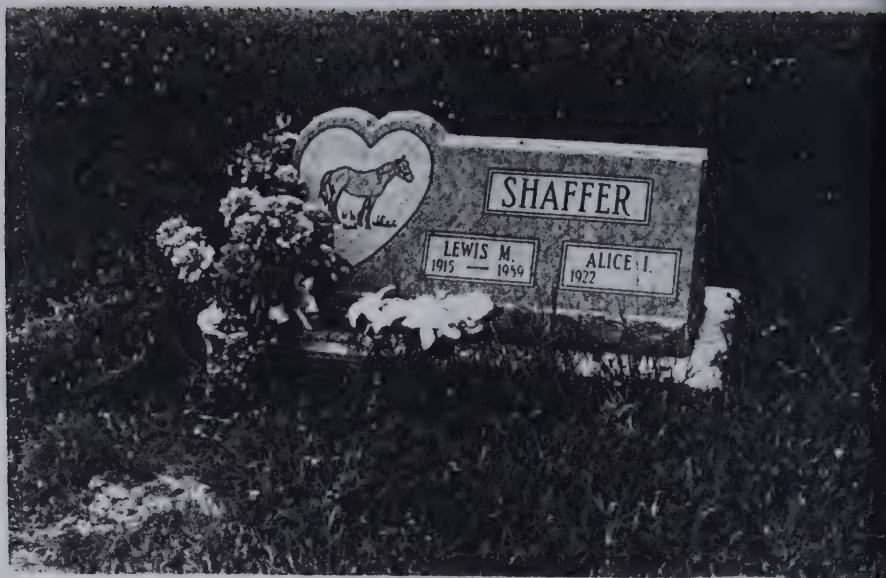

Mr. Shaffer was born April 23, 1915, in Kendallville. His parents were Ralph and Maude (Williams) Shaffer. He and Alice Church were married May 10, 1938, in Garrett. She survives. He retired in 1975 after 36 years with the B & O Railroad as a conductor.

Mr. Shaffer was a former member of the DeKalb County Sheriff Mounted Possie.

Other survivors, in addition to his wife, are, five sons, Leonard, of Auburn, Gaylord and Blain, of Alamosa, Michael, of Columbia City, and Thomas, of LaJara; three brothers, Paul, of Kendallville, Robert, of St. Cloud, Fla., and Eugene, of Ashley; two sisters, Ruth Billingsly, of Wiley, Kan., and Phyllis Best; 15 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. One brother, Harry, and one sister, Dorothy Kemery, preceded him in death.

The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
 He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
 He leadeth me beside the still waters.
 He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the
 paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
 for thou art with me; thy rod and
 thy staff they comfort me.
 Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
 thou anointest my head with oil;
 my cup runneth over.
 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow
 me all the days of my life:
 and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
